CHAIRMAN'S CHAT – FEBRUARY 2004

Hopefully you all have had a good time at the Annual Dinner Dance – I know how much work goes into organising this and I am sure it will have been a great success.

Most of you will know by now that we were privileged to receive the British Rally Championship “Rally of the Year” award at the recent BRC dinner, for Rally Yorkshire. Many thanks to everyone who helped make this event so successful; certainly I have received many complimentary comments about the friendly atmosphere and professionalism of the Marshals. I am also sure that the new partnership with Ryedale and Malton helped create a super environment. No doubt the nice weather put everyone in a good mood as well!!

Lots of events in the coming months for all Trackrod members to get involved with – see our “Rolling Calendar” in every edition of the magazine, and/or take a look at the ANCC web site (www.ancc.co.uk) which has a fuller list for all ANCC clubs.

Once again we are promoting the Rally Championship with cash awards as well as a trophy – split between Single Venue (Multi use) and Multi Venue events – all well organised rallies, and in our region. Details were in an insert to last months magazine, and are included again this month.

Remember also our EGM to be held at the Conservative Club, Gildersome, on Tuesday 2 March 2004. We will follow this with an “open forum” as usual so you may ask any questions in an informal atmosphere and also let other club members know of events or other information of interest.

Whatever you plan to do, have fun

Rod Parkin
Chairman

FORMAL NOTIFICATION

Trackrod Motor Club finished 3rd overall in the East Midlands Stage Rally Club Championship.

Scottish Correspondent

January 2004

Seasons greetings from Scotland. Well, the year is finished – another one passed!!! Been quite a busy one has 2003, with a whole new role on the Scottish, as you will have read a few months ago. So what has been going on over the last few months?

Trackrod Rally Yorkshire

This was an excellent opportunity to meet old friends (and make new ones) in the lovely locations of Malton and Pickering, oh and the forests!! Great weekend, great rally, with great help from Richard Webster. The only thing to fail on the RR this year was the ABS/brake pump – I had to do 3 stages with manual brakes, was rather taxing on my right leg!!! We found that a 30Amp fuse had blown, replaced and now all sorted – thanks for the help from 4Plus4.

34th Tour of Mull 2003

This was to be the usual format of closed roads with stages on the Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night. We (Tim Sunderland and I) had been asked to be Road Opening car again, so running at the back of the pack. We had decided last year that this year, our 8th, would be the last doing the role – many reasons for this, plus an opportunity for others to give the job new energy. We had agreed to take one of the new team in the back of the car, to give them a flavour of what we do. At the end of the Friday night and Saturday afternoon they commented that they didn't appreciate there was so much to the job! It's not just driving around and posing, lots of equipment and paperwork to collect, plus account for all the cars, both within a stage and on the road sections.

Stage 1 and 2 were running well for us when we heard about the very unfortunate incident on SS3, we were devastated, along with everyone else involved. All emergency services worked as they should, team work under very sad situation. The rest of Friday night was cancelled, with the rest of the event unknown.

The organizers took input from all interested parties, and it was agreed that the Saturday afternoon would be a single loop, and that the night stages would be as planned – the correct decision in my mind.

The rest of the event passed without any incidents to note, but I must say it was very subdued. After 8 years doing the role it was a pity to finish on such a low, but that's life I guess.

Sunday was a day of leisure, visiting the beach at Calgary Bay (if you have never seen the place you must) and having fun there with Susanne, Erin, Ewan and Duddly who had come across as foot passengers just for one night. On the Sunday night we had organized to have a table for 15 at Glen-gorm Castle, soup, main course, pud and coffee and only £15 – plus it was excellent quality!! A very sociable evening was had.

Our accommodation is booked (12 beds) again for next year, plus Nick Hood has another cottage booked, and Tim Sutherland a cottage for his service crew – he plans to compete if he can get an entry!!!

Thanks again for Tim's help over the last 8years, who knows what next year will bring on the 35th event – start radio on Tobs 1 & 2?????

Kingdom stages – Crail near St Andrews

1st November

Was asked again to be Safety Officer (SO) and help sort that side of things out. Alan Dalziel of Dumfries/Baldoon fame was given the challenges of Spectator Safety Officer as well. The venue is an old WWII airfield, very similar to Melbourne but in mint condition. Its right on the coast, just down from St Andrews – so fine as long as the weather is OK!!! I took our caravan over, so Ewan, Alan and I had dinner in there on the Friday night, slept, and then ready nice and early on the Saturday morning. A lot of work had been done by the organizers and landowner over the days prior, so it was just a matter of handing out radios, making sure marshals were in place, emergency services on station and we were ready to start at 08:30.

The event has the usual 4 pairs of stages, 2 pairs in the morning, then full reversal at lunchtime. All was going well until on SS4 car 29 took out his N/S front wheel/suspension in a fast chicane, braked hard on a fast straight, rolled three times and finished upside down in the field. Emergency vehicles were quickly on the scene, with the navigator carefully removed and off to meet the county ambulance. Whilst all the personal were working hard on their duties, as the SO I was on the scene making sure the area was safe, and feeding back 'high level' details to the organizers, so that decisions could be made. After being involved in an incident like this I feel it's even more important that we clearly identify what the 'Stage Safety Officer' role must be. It must be an 'independent' person who's sole duties are to secure the area and feedback to the SC/organisers.

The rest of the event passed without incident, and we were all able to go home just as it was getting dark. A good day out, and well recommend to all. Did I mention, the weather was great as well, with great views across to Edinburgh and the North Sea.

Planning for 2004
RSAC Scottish Rally
10th to 13th June 2004

You might have seen different dates, but as of now the Scottish in 2004 will be the second weekend in June – 10th to 13th June 2004. The format has still to be clarified, but in outline it will be:

Thursday 10th - media stage (good fun in 2003!)
Friday 11th – scrutineering etc, plus stage(s)
Saturday 12th – full day of stages
Sunday 13th – morning/early afternoon more stages.

Watch this space for more details, or contact Simon Marston since I am sure we will be contacting him very soon!!!

The caravan site is booked again, plus B&B is available in the area, so that over the weekend we can have a BBQ or 2 – with a few company products (Guinness etc.) being consumed along with some good meat from Scotland! Accommodation can be found in the region, but book early since it is near HQ.

If anybody would like more details on any of the above, then please contact me on 01259 760611H, 07793 662444 M – but not after 22:00! (eMail peter.stanhope@diageo.com)

Safe motoring.

Report on the last three years rallying!

It is about three years since I contributed anything to this illustrious magazine and I feel you have been spared long enough from my thoughts. So what has been happening and what have we learnt from the experiences?

For those people who do not know us, Jon Neale and John McNichol (me) are the Trackrod crew that have been competing on stage rallies for just over three years in a Diahatsu Cuore Avanzato – this is one of those little cars you have been laughing at when you saw it. For those of you interested have a look at the website for pictures and more details.

In 2001 we contested the ANCC championship and were 2nd o/a driver and 1st o/a navigator.

In 2002 we contested some of the BTRDA rounds and were 11th in the raceandrally.com championship from 48 scoring crews.

In 2003 we have not been able to commit to a full championship but have enjoyed the seven, mainly local events we have done and won TMC Championship awards for the year.

Since we have now sold the Daihatsu it seems a good time to reflect on the last three years. Firstly, we have done 22 events (mostly good quality, national championship forest events) and finished every one. The car has never let us down and needed no replacement parts at all. Jon has cleaned it, put petrol in it (but not much) and that's about it! He even got most of his money back when he sold it.

So who is laughing now?

I hope that our experience of modern day rallying and my previous 25 years involvement in the sport qualifies me to comment on some of the aspects of our sport and I'm sure others will have other views they wish to air – good, get writing!

Rallying in this country is booming at clubman level. Events are attracting a high number of entries; even new events are well supported (witness Delacy November Rally and Malton's in December). Even single venue events are oversubscribed and while I don't understand the wish to wreck a car in places like Melbourne, many people do want to do so and venues are at a premium. Perhaps the most significant success in clubman rallying is the BTRDA series. Entry lists are full weeks before the events with 150 crews and it is not unusual to have 40+ entries in the 1400 class alone.

Why is this such a success? It is because they give competitors what they want (and can afford). Excellent organisation, minimum road mileage, no need to be away from home more than one night, events run by enthusiasts, for enthusiasts. Probably one of the best improvements over the last 5 years has been the documentation given to crews and their service crews. Marked maps and/or route notes mean you do not have to spend hours sorting out maps. As someone who enjoys reading maps I surprise myself to say this but at the end of a hard week's work I want to go for a pint – not give myself a headache with plotting and organising!

The other "boom" area of rallying is the historic. Again, the competitors are getting what they want and support the events accordingly. Likewise, the Khumo series is successful.

If anyone reads Motoring News you would believe that rallying is in crisis and in need of a thorough overall. This is not so. Certain parts of it are not having a good time and these are at the top levels and their embarrassment tends to be exaggerated and more public.

The WRC needs to stop and look at itself. Our round of this world championship is now tucked away in a corner of South Wales. We recently had the new world champion crowned on the event and there was ZERO mention on the BBC or any of the main broadcasters. I actively TRIED to find rally coverage and struggled so what chance the man in the street of being exposed? Did you see rallying featured on the Sports Review of 2003? We now have no Colin McRae in WRC (or any other Brit) and manufacturers withdrawing their support or threatening to do so. Why? Because rallying doesn't sell cars anymore – well no, it won't if it is tucked away in a cul de sac in Wales. They got more publicity for being caught speeding than for winning the world championship!

The British Rally Championship also has problems that won't go away. I'm sure Rod and his team are doing all they can to maintain the Trackrod Rally and I wish them well but wonder if they don't long to return to the BTRDA or ANCRO fold.

We did not compete on the Trackrod this year because there are better rallies for us to do. Double used forest tracks are no fun when you run behind all the powerful cars that rip up the road. I reckon we actually flatten the bumps down! The major gripe we have about any event is when we feel we are there just to make up the numbers. Do a BTRDA round and you are valued – 1400 class actually run at the front so we get smooth roads and they are STILL smooth after we have been over them for the big boys. Why don't all rallies do this? I know why – do you?

It is interesting that the successful series; ANCC, BTRDA, Khumo are all organised by unpaid volunteers. WRC and BRC employ people to run them. Is there a message here?

My real concern is that the powers that be (in the form of the recent recommendations by Mike Broad) are trying to resolve the problems at the top by diluting the success of the clubman series and may do untold damage.

Do we need “franchises” to run our sport?

Are the “rich boys” exercising more influence than is healthy?

Is there too much “self interest” at work?

Do you care? It would be good if we could have some healthy debate in this magazine on the state of rallying and its future – but please keep it sensible and not personal!

Happy New Year to all members.

John McNichol and Jon Neale

May I offer my congratulations to the organising team of Rally Yorkshire. Some of the membership may not be aware yet that the event was voted by the competitors and officials of the British Rally Championship as their best round of the 2003 Series.

Rod rightly deserves this recognition for bringing the rally from its origins in the late 1970's, through BT&RDA and ANCRO to the BRC. However, it is surely a much greater accolade for all the organising team of the rally over these many years, who have put in a huge amount of work to bring it to where it is today.

The named officials in the regulations are the core team, but this credit also goes to the many Yorkshire (and other) clubs who commit to assisting both before and on the weekend. They contribute hugely to making the event what it is, surely one of the best and most prestigious special stage rallies in the UK.

Well done all! This reflects the standing of Trackrod Motor Club Ltd. within the corridors and the (now not so) smoky rooms of motor sport management throughout the country.

It's a bit like the common cold really, Trackrod pop's up everywhere! Long may that continue!

I presume the organisation of the 2004 Rally Yorkshire is well under way and firmly in place already.....?

John Richardson

Wedding Bells

May I congratulate our club secretary Alison on her recent marriage to David.
